ATR VERDICT: TIGER ORCHID romped to an emphatic 11-length course-and-distance victory on debut for Dr Richard Newland and could prove tough to beat with Cillin Leonard coming into the saddle to negate most of the weight he has to concede to his rivals with his 7lb claim. Don't Stop Now was very green and didn't have the smoothest run at Fontwell earlier this month, but did stick on for second once Paddy Brennan got the gelding rolling and could have a say in this. Feel Like De Baune was a winner in the pointing field and is respected on his Rules debut, while Moveit Like Minnie is an interesting newcomer for Nigel Twiston-Davies.

ATR VERDICT: The Andrew Balding-trained GOLDEN CRUSADER offered plenty of promise as a juvenile and has the potential to improve on his seasonal reappearance, his first start since having a gelding operation. Kolisi and Khaiz represent top yards and, having both shown improved form on their most recent outings, look capable of getting in the mix once again.

ATR VERDICT: A few of these fillies have plenty to find in this Listed contest and it may pay to focus on those with proven form in Pattern company. MEU AMOR has placed form in this grade and should find things easier on this occasion now she is back against her own sex, having faced the colts when third at Epsom earlier this month. The Irish-trained Thunder Beauty left her reappearance run behind when a running-on sixth in a Group 3 at the Curragh last time and promises to be suited by the return to 7f, while the unbeaten Cloudy Dawn comes from a top stable and shouldn't be out of place in this company.

ATR VERDICT: SEALED OFFER makes her third start for this yard and looks capable of stepping up, having been weak in the market for her reappearance run, with the return to 7f also likely to be in her favour (winner on her only start over this trip). Pearl Of Qatar has notched up three wins on the turf this year and is feared, while Candescence drops back in trip and may do better on just her second start this year.
