ATR VERDICT: King Cabo ran well when third on his debut, though he runs in to NATIONS PRIDE here, and may have to settle for a place. The son of Teofilo came home in second at Yarmouth on his only start to date when running on late over the seven furlongs and, upped to a mile here, he may well do even better. Looe Beach looks the sort to improve with more experience and could get up for third.

ATR VERDICT: SCARLET DANCER has improved with every run so far, and he got off the mark at the third time of asking at Chester last time. He now steps into handicap company and could be hard to beat if he takes another step forward, while Fiftyshadesaresdev is another making his handicap debut and he could be involved as well if he can build on his run at Pontefract. Lethal Levi is also one for the shortlist as he has been in the frame on each of his seven career starts, so another bold show looks likely.

Top Tip: SCARLET DANCER (2)

Watch out for: FIFTYSHADESARESDEV (6)

ATR VERDICT: In a tricky contest, ESCOBEDO may be the one to side with after showing signs that he could be competitive at this level at Kempton on his latest outing. Drag Race didn't show much on debut but her chance was gone at the start, and she may improve for the step up in trip. It would be no surprise to see her involved as well, while Tara Iti hasn't shown much for a while now, but he will be dangerous if he can recapture his best form.

ATR VERDICT: The progressive Alpha Cru is seeking her fourth win in just six starts, and after winning well at Hamilton he could take all the beating in this contest. However, EMINENT HIPSTER may appreciate the return to 1m after running better than the bare result in a strong-looking contest at Sandown on his latest start, so he gets the vote. Under Fox is another one for the shortlist after recording an impressive victory at Hamilton when beating Tromso comfortably.

ATR VERDICT: Shandoz hasn't been seen since finishing down the field in the Old Rowley Cup this time last year, and he looks an interesting contender. SIR RUMI seemed to appreciate the return to quicker ground at Newmarket last time, and he might have hit the front too early. That could turn out to be a strong piece of form, and with the potential for further improvement he could be a big player in this contest. Bodyline is another for the shortlist as he makes his all-weather debut and might appreciate the drop to this trip.

ATR VERDICT: The Resdev Way won over two miles at Wolverhampton last time out, pulling away close home. He carries 1lb less today back on turf but hasn't been seen since April, which is the main concern. Wynford has run well over this trip with a length second at Musselburgh in August and should not be far away, but FIRST ACCOUNT looks best handicapped. A winner over hurdles and fences, he gets in here off a mark of 62 and that may be lenient.

ATR VERDICT: The William Haggas-trained TARHIB made an encouraging debut when runner-up at Newmarket last October and, with the drop in trip expected to work in her favour, the daughter of Dark Angel may be capable of making a winning return to action. Shobiz bumped into a smart prospect when finishing second at Kempton on his latest start and is feared, while Next Victory can be excused her most recent effort and looks best of the remainder.

ATR VERDICT: GEORGE SCOTT shaped with plenty of promise on his first start for this yard at Newcastle last time, travelling well for a long way, and the three-year-old may have even more to offer now dropping in trip. The Archie Watson-trained Letmestopyouthere has performed well after returning from a break in the past and looks a danger, while the veteran Top Boy caught the eye making late headway at Chelmsford on his latest start and is also worth noting.

Great Commission was only beaten a neck when third at Beverley last month over shorter when caught late on and could be interesting, along with TIGER BEETLE. Back in to maiden company now, after running in a handicap here last time, he could prove difficult to beat.

ATR VERDICT: Nothing seemed to go right for HATSHEPSUT at Lingfield after missing the break and being trapped wide. If she can put that run behind her, she will be a big player as she steps into handicap company for the first time. Elmira also makes her handicap debut and is another to note, while Jusumi produced a more encouraging display at Musselburgh last time and she could be involved as well if she can build on that performance.

Top Tip: HATSHEPSUT (1)

Watch out for: ELMIRA (2)

ATR VERDICT: FRANKELIO registered his sole win for this yard over course and distance last year and, having appeared to find the test on the sharp side at Thirsk last time, the six-year-old looks set for a big run with Graham Lee back in the plate. End Zone met some trouble in running at Ayr last month and may get closer this time, while Gainsbourg still has the scope to progress and cannot be discounted.

Top Tip: FRANKELIO (5)

Watch out for: END ZONE (2)

ATR VERDICT: It is intriguing that Ubahha is tried over the minimum trip on his debut for Antony Brittain after showing promise over further. He is wearing cheekpieces for the first time and looks an interesting contender. The newcomer Master Sully has plenty of speed in his pedigree and it would be no surprise to see him make an impact. However, GUSTAV GRAVES gets the vote after a good run at Doncaster, and his new handler Mark Loughnane may have found him a good opportunity to break his maiden tag.

Top Tip: GUSTAV GRAVES (2)

Watch out for: UBAHHA (5)
